Couzens Urges Thorough Inquiry on Changed Transportation Conditions

FORM STRONGER ROADS
Public Necessity Vital Question Debated at U. S. Capital

Washington — (CPA) — Senator James Couzens of Michigan chairman of the senate committee on interstate commerce, believes that congress should enact "more liberal legislation," or at least be more specific, so as to properly indicate its intent with respect to railroad consolidation. For this reason he urges that a thorough inquiry should be made taking into account some of the changed conditions since the transportation act of 1920 was passed.

Since Mr. Couzens is the head of the committee which will deal with railroad legislation his observations are significant.

"The subject of rail transportation," said Mr. Couzens, "is very much in the public mind at this time—for several reasons. One of the reasons is that railroads, on their own statement, are very efficiently and economically managed, which renews greatly in the public interest. This increased efficiency in railroad management has brought about much better use of equipment and greatly speeded up transportation of commodities, thereby making it unnecessary for manufacturers and merchants to carry so large a stock on hand."

"I mention this because when the 1920 transportation act was passed this condition, it is understood, did not exist and some railroads, both large and small, were called "weak" railroads.

WANTED LEVELING PLAN

"Congress thought, so as to provide adequate income for the so-called weak and short-line railroads, a leveling-out plan should be adopted. I mean by the leveling plan where one railroad, through good operating conditions, plenty of business and efficient management, receives a very high return upon its investment, while other railroads not so well located and with less tonnage are unable to get even an adequate return upon their investment."

"Then it was thought that the consolidation of the railroads into a number of large systems would bring about economy in administration by the elimination of duplication of management; it was thought that better use of terminal facilities might be had, with resulting economy. This together with other reasons, brought about the provisions for consolidation in the transportation act of 1920."

"Congress further provided that

CAR PLUNGES 40 FEET,
HITS CABLES; 2 DEAD

Indianapolis—(AP)—Two men were killed last night when their automobile plunged down a 40-foot embankment, caught on cables and dangled over Eagle Creek.

One of the men, whom police identified as Guy Thompson, Indianapolis, was tossed from the machine and decapitated; the body of the other, identified as Loftin Williams, Atlanta, Ga., by a taxicab driver's license in his clothing, was found floating in the creek.

The license number on the car was issued to Henry Hueper of Forest Park, Ill., and in view of this police believe the men had stolen the automobile.

Mrs. Ada Davenport, 25, Indianapolis, was rescued from the machine as it dangled in the air; she was only slightly bruised. She could not identify her companions, whom she said she had met earlier in the evening.

130 CHINESE REPORTED
DEAD IN THEATRE FIRE

Mukden, Manchuria—(AP)—One hundred and thirty Chinese men, women and children, were burned to death at Klein yesterday when fire destroyed a motion picture theather. Twenty others were injured.

The theatre was of wood and was only two months old, having opened in January to show American films. Defective wiring was believed the cause of the disaster.

Rengo news agency dispatches to Tokyo yesterday said 76 persons were killed, 16 were missing, and scores injured in the blaze.

MINERS REFUSE TO CUT
SALARIES OF OFFICERS

Indianapolis, Ind.—(AP)—The convention of the United Mine Workers of America after debating an hour this morning, refused to adopt constitutional amendments which would have reduced salaries of international officers.

The present salary of John L. Appleton, International president is $12,000 a year. One resolution proposed to reduce his salary to $4,500. Others fixed amounts ranging upward to $234,000.

The vice president and secretary each of whom receive $3,000 annually also would have received reductions as well as all international board members and the editor of the United Mine Workers Journal.

Idle Property
Means Loss
of Income

Each day that rental property lies idle means a loss of income. Desirable property is always in demand—the thing to do is to get knowledge of your proposition to the right party. A Post-Crescent "Rental" ad will accomplish this sooner than any other method—and more economically.

Mrs. John Cameron, 1500 N. Appleton St., rented her flat on Pacific St. by using the above method—the ad brought her a desirable tenant after the first publication. The cost was undoubtedly only a fraction of one day's rental.

DOHENY CASE
NEARLY READY
FOR JURYMENDefense Attorney Accuses
Prosecution of Misrepresenting Facts

Washington—(AP)—After a searching arraignment of Edward L. Doheny, by Atlee Pomerene, government prosecutor, Frank Hogan, who is defending Doheny on a bribery charge, began his argument today by asserting that Pomerene had "shredded patriotic citizens."

Hogan took advantage of the 15 minutes left of the morning session by launching into a vigorous attack on Pomerene's arguments. The defense counsel accused the prosecutor of misrepresenting facts.

In opening final arguments Pomerene, government prosecutor, today told the jury that Doheny bribed Albert B. Fall when he sent him $100,000 in cash prior to receiving for his company a lease to the Elk Hills naval oil reserve.

Doheny denied the money was a bribe to influence Fall, former secretary of the interior, in his award of the Elk Hills reserve. Fall was convicted last October on a charge of receiving the bribe. The defense, however, won a point yesterday afternoon, it was agreed that Justice William Hitz in his charge to the jury should instruct it that even if Fall were guilty of receiving a bribe Doheny might not be guilty of giving it.

Further argument was made by the defense today over the form of one of the government's pleas, which would have instructed the jury that even though the money was a loan, if it was found the intent was to influence Fall, Doheny could be found guilty. The court granted the plea with slight amendment.

Pomerene began his argument by reviewing the naval oil reserves history from the time they were set aside.

Asks Indictments For Bribery In Julian Fraud Case

FIVE ACCUSED OF TAMPERING WITH JURORS

More Than Score of Witnesses Are Held in Technical Custody

Los Angeles—(P)—Declaring that he has confessions or admissions of guilty participation in "the most outrageous bribery schemes ever uncovered in this county," District Attorney Burton Fitts today sought indictments against five or more persons involved in alleged jury tampering in connection with the $100,000 Julian Petroleum corporation fraud case.

Fitts said he would ask the grand jury to indict among others, Sheridan C. Lewis, former president of the Julian company. Lewis was arrested yesterday on a charge of suspicion of conspiracy to offer and give a bribe to juror.

Others taken into custody for investigation in connection with the latest Julian upheaval are Jacob Berman, Julian company official; Louis Krause and J. H. Weaver, alleged juror bribees; Frank G. Grider, John B. Groves, Mrs. Bertie A. Shook, Mrs. Agnes C. Hackett and Mrs. Carolina Love, members of the jury which acquitted the 10 Julian principals of fraud in 1928.

More than a score of witnesses were being held in technical custody until they testify before the grand jury.

ADMITS BRIBERY

Chief among the developments growing out of Fitts' investigations was a confession from Berman in which he admitted he had bribed two jurors, Grider and Groves, for their votes of "not guilty" in the Julian trial. Berman said the bribes were made through Krause, whom he knew to be a "juror fixer." He said the bribes were consummated through the purchase for $16,000 of a house from Grider and the payment of $5,000 cash to Groves.

"I promised I would tell the whole story of this Julian affair from start to finish and this jury bribing was part of it," Berman told Fitts. "It was my money, $16,000 of it, that went to buy Juror Grider's home and I personally, in company with Louis Krause, gave Juror Groves $5,000 in $100 bills."

Mrs. Love, another juror, admitted she had been approached by Weaver, acting as agent for Lewis and had agreed to accept $20,000 "if I found it could conscientiously vote a verdict of acquittal." She said the deal did not go through, however, and she received no money from any source.

"Partial confession" and "damaging admissions" received from others questioned will be presented to the grand jury, Fitts said.

ASK CONGRESS TO SAVE CUSTER INSCRIPTION

Pierre, S. D.—(P)—To preserve an old inscription cut in a rock on Mt. Inyan Kara in Wyoming by Gen. George A. Custer, representatives and senators from a half dozen mid-western states are being asked to secure funds from the federal government.

The inscription was cut by Custer two years before the massacre of the Little Big Horn. It is endangered by destructive relic hunters, historians here declare.

Maine's Senator Hale Loves Navy Like A Child

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—To the extent that the results of the London naval limitation conference are unsatisfactory to the Big Navy faction in the United States, the country is sure to hear from Senator Freddie Hale of Maine. Senator Hale is probably the most enthusiastic athlete in the Senate and also is chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee.

Hale is a 100 per cent regular Republican, docile and silent, on every day of the year except those when he is given to believe that someone has designs on his navy. Thus when President Coolidge wanted the power to hold up carrying out the 15-cruiser program Mr. Hale came dashing out from his obscurity to lead the successful fight to thwart the president. Right now he is more irritating to President Hoover by his squawks at the course of our delegation in London, than that hasn't dissuaded him from denunciation and it won't.

A LOVER OF THE SEA

One hears Freddie Hale has a fine old model of a clipper ship on his mantel piece and that his favorite form of mental exercise is to sit and contemplate it. Everyone says that he particularly loves the sea. In fact, he is often fondly called "Towboat Hale," although that may be only because former Senator Jim Reed of Missouri during the last cruiser bill debate described him as a "towboat setting up as the flag ship of the navy."

Hale is a good-looking little man, with briefly close-cropped hair and mustache. He has splendid biceps and is fast on his feet. He loves to box and excel at the sport, but he also bowls often with Senator Couzens in some alleys on K street, generally defeating the Michigan statesman. He and Senator Couzens were the first to go to Washington to get the new model Fords when they came out, though someone stole Hale's other favorite. Hale's sports are ducking and diving.

SCHAFFER ASKED TO EXPLAIN CHARGES OF CONTRIBUTIONS

Resolution Demanding Explanation Adopted by Interim Group

Madison—(P)—The legislative interim committee on campaign expenditures late yesterday passed a resolution asking Congressman John Schaefer, Milwaukee, to explain in detail the charges he made recently relative to the contribution of campaign funds to Wisconsin campaigns by public utility interests.

At a meeting of the committee in Washington last January, Cons. Schaefer said he had information which indicates that the source of funds came from a public utility, a chain of one of the branches of a public utility trust which is specified in my resolution." He declined to make known the details on the ground that certain bills and resolutions introduced by him for the purpose of investigating the matter were pending before Congress.

The committee, in passing the resolution, ordered a copy sent to Richard E. Lee, New York attorney who contributed $5,000 to the Progressive Republican club of Milwaukee county in the last primary campaign. The committee attached to the copy a request that Lee submit the names of the men who contributed various amounts contained in the $5,000 contribution.

Before adjournment was taken the committee also decided to write each witness who appeared in the John Doe investigations following the 1928 election, asking them their permission to use the testimony given.

The committee announced that Judge S. B. Schein, in whose court the proceedings were held, would release the testimony only on condition that the witnesses agree to it.

The John Doe proceedings investigated the campaign expenditures of Communists in the Philippines.

The boycott of American goods, spread of Communistic doctrines among the ignorant masses of the islands and the active participation of Communists in the recent school strike here were among the activities on which the request was made.

Representative Schaefer, in addition to revealing the whole history of the Lee contributions, attacked Philip F. LaFollette for campaigning against chain stores while the LaFollette progressives had accepted the contributions from Lee, who represented small order concerns which were seeking reductions in the postal rates.

Representative Schaefer has announced that he will go into details on the Rawleigh Tariff Bureau, of Madison and Washington, in a later speech. The bureau denied the charges made against it in Schaefer's speech made in February.

New York—(P)—An attempt by three masked men to hold up a Greenwich village restaurant shortly before midnight resulted in the killing of one of the robbers, the capture of another after patrons had beaten him severely and the wounding of a man and a woman.

A man identified as Alfred Marino was killed by a policeman who surprised the robbers in the act of searching 20 patrons in Charlie's Triangle restaurant in Carmine-st.

While the robbers were collecting cash and jewelry from their victims, a waiter slipped out and called Patrolman James F. Rogers, who ran to the entrance of the restaurant, which is in a basement. Finding the door locked, he fired a shot through the glass panel and stepped aside.

As one of the holdup men fled through the door he leveled a pistol at Rogers but the gun jammed. Rogers then shot him through the head, killing him instantly. Another of the holdup men escaped although Rogers fired several shots after him.

The third was seized by patrons.

Frank Boggiano, a patron, was struck in the abdomen by a bullet fired by one of the gunmen as they fled. Another bullet glanced from a table and struck Mrs. Clara Schuttmacher in the breast.

The robber who was captured was identified as Thomas Richlone.

Police found him bound on the floor of the restaurant severely beaten about the head and face with sugar bowls and other crockery wielded by his erstwhile victims. Police said they found a pistol on him and $245 taken from the cash register. Scattered about the place was $200 more and jewelry belonging to the patrons.

The proprietors of the place were arrested for possession of liquor.

POLICE GET FASTER CARS TO COMBAT RUM RUNNERS

Detroit—(P)—Michigan's state police, upon whom falls most of the responsibility for apprehending rum runners using federal highways while investigating, are to be provided with faster cars and added weapons.

Because some liquor dealers use the fastest type of automobiles, state police will be equipped with similar machines. Sub-machine guns mounted on pivots to enable officers to "rake the road," will be installed in many cars. Tear gas equipment also is to be provided.

One device of the rum runners that has been difficult to combat has been the "dust screen," a concealing cloud of dust blown up on unpaved roads in dry weather. Most inter-city roads, however, are hard surfaced, and transportation from one city to another entirely over unpaved roads is virtually impossible in Michigan.

Watch Tomorrow's Post-Crescent For Another List Of Idea Prize Winners

Tomorrow the Post-Crescent will contain another list of prize winners in the On to Washington contest. Who will the lucky ones be?

Watch for Friday's paper to learn what boys and girls can in the best ideas in the last week. As usual since this contest started the editor has been swamped with letters this week. The interest in the contest proves all the rural school pupils are enthused over the prospect of making the trip to Washington next June.

Scores of students are working hard to earn the $25 to go to Washington, and since the contest started many new and novel ideas have been uncovered. Some of the ways in which the pupils are earning the money for the commencement trip show that these boys and girls possess unusual ingenuity and industry. These are the boys and girls who are being awarded 50 cents for their ideas as a reward from the Post-Crescent.

Hundreds of boys and girls have sent in letters since the contest started and many boys and girls have sent in exactly the same ideas. In these cases, if the idea was a good one, the first boy or girl to send it in received a prize. The other boys and girls cannot, of course, receive a prize for the same idea.

A review of the prize lists already made known shows that several boys and girls are working very hard in the contest and that they already have won one or more prizes and some of them are scheduled for more prizes.

It isn't hard boys and girls. If you think it is just ask one of the boys or girls who has already received a prize. Sit down right now and write to On to Washington editor and tell him how you are earning your money for the Washington trip. The letter may bring you a prize. The contest is to run until next June and there is no limit to the number of prizes you may win.

Albert Luebke is chairman of the special committee which will make its report Friday night.

PICK BITULITHIC FOR RESURFACING APPLETON STREETS

Common Council Also Decides to Pave Rankin, Hancock-sts

Warrenite bitulithic pavement was selected for the resurfacing of Oneida, Midway, Washington, and Lawrence-sts, and the paving of Rankin and Hancock-sts at the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening. Property holders from all streets concerned in the paving program appeared to voice their opinions on type of pavement.

South-st and Brokaw-4d were struck off from the list of streets to be paved after a petition signed by 12 property holders protesting against the improvement was received. The petition pointed out that because both streets have a hard surface, certain repairs would put them in a satisfactory condition.

Statements of benefits and damages will be issued not later than April 16, and no contracts will be awarded until these notices have been sent to property holders. All bids were turned over to the street and bridge committee.

Mayor A. C. Rule explained that inasmuch as the law provides that property holders cannot be assessed more than $3 a square yard for paving, property owners on the streets to be resurfaced will be required to pay only the difference between their assessment when the street was first paved and the $3 prescribed by law.

A rumor circulated among Rankin-st residents to the effect that the probable routing of a state highway over that street would bring state and county aid in the future resulted in a petition signed by 15 property owners protesting against paving at this time. However, after Mayor Rule explained that Richmond-st and Wisconsin-ave had been put into shape to receive this traffic, and that Highway 111 would no doubt be routed over these streets, a group of Rankin and Hancock-st residents went into conference, returning with a recommendation that both streets be paved with bitulithic.

FIGURES WIDENING COST

An estimate of the cost of widening Appleton-st and installing an ornamental lighting system such as the one on College-ave was presented by L. M. Schindler, city engineer. Basing his report on the assumption that a bid as favorable as the one for the College-ave lighting system will be secured, the engineer estimated that the cost of removing the old curb, part of the walk, placing new material and installing the lighting system would be $16,430, of which the city will bear $4,400. The total cost of the improvement to the abutting property will be from $5 to $9 a front foot, of which $3 a front foot will be for the lighting system. The city's share of the total cost of the installation of new lights will be $3,300. Mr. Schindler figured the widening would cost $6,130, the new lighting system $9,000, and the removal of the old poles $400.

His report pointed out that the estimate on the cost of widening does not include the expense of moving the rearrangement of heating, plumbing, conduits and other fixtures which property owners, now using part of the street, have placed in the space that would be affected by the widening. No estimate was made of the cost of removing poles and placing wiring underground or of removing gasoline pumps now located at the curb.

John Neller of Pettibone-Peabody company made clear that his company is not opposed to the improvement, but that officials of the concern are anxious to be convinced of the wisdom of making a change of this nature. He stated that the estimated damage to his company's main store, figured some time ago, would be about $12,000. The engineer added that beside the Pettibone

"We found that ships of the same type as the Patoka originally would have been named for stars in the firmament. We found some named for Indian tribes and some for rivers. One was found to be named after a wood nymph. But we couldn't find a star, river, a wood nymph or even an Indian tribe named Patoka."

The investigation continued, however, until it finally was discovered that the Patoka had been named after a local Indian chief who held forth many years ago around Marion, Ill., in what later became known as "Bloody Williamson County."

WANT PETITIONS SOON FOR STREET OILING

With the referring of the bids on street oil to the street and bridge committee, Walter Gineiner, chairman of the committee, requests that all petitions for street oiling be in the hands of the city clerk or the committee by May 1. Last year a number of petitions came in so late in the fall the oiling of the streets had to be postponed until this spring. This year it is hoped that all street oiling can be done earlier in the summer.

BISHOP COADJUTOR WILL CONDUCT RETREAT

The Rt. Rev. Harwood Sturtevant, bishop coadjutor of the Fond du Lac diocese of the Episcopal church, will conduct a retreat for boys of the diocese at Grace church, Sheboygan, Friday and Saturday. About 55 boys are expected to attend, among them a number of Appleton boys.

Painting of the lamp posts of the new ornamental lighting system, installed by the Art-Killoran company, has progressed from Drew to Morrison-st. The job will be completed in about 10 days. The posts are being painted dark green.

Employees of the street department are painting the "No U Turn" signs.

Seabody company the property owned by the First National bank and all property lying between the bank and Hotel Appleton would be damaged by the widening.

The whole matter was referred to the street and bridge committee, with the suggestion that the committee confer with the Appleton property owners. Real oil and fire hose bids also were referred to the committee, as was the petition for a sidewalk on E. John-st and Walter-st.

TABLE PUŁASKI MOTION

The request that the council recommend that Oct. 11 be made a national holiday in honor of General Pułaski was tabled. The general opinion of the council on the matter was expressed by Alderman Philip Vogt, who pointed out that with so many national heroes it would be poor policy to select one of a certain nationality for national heroes.

A petition from the Master Plumbers' association asking that all master plumbers be obliged to secure a license at a cost of $5 and a bond for $500 was referred to the ordinance committee, the plumbing inspection and the city attorney.

The revised plans for Pierce plat, to be known as Pierce-ave, were accepted, the proposed Wisconsin Matchin Power company city line route adopted, and permission granted to the Appleton water department to rent the city air compressor. The clerk was authorized to advertise for two electric motors for the S. Oneida-drawbridge. A refund of $50 to William Meyer for a Class A permit was ordered, licenses were granted to Max Meyer and Oscar Friedman, and a request for a Class A permit from Mr. Meyer was referred to the police and license committee. Petitions for street lights at the intersection of the alley in the rear of the Presbyterian church and Drew-st, and at the end of W. Lawrence-st, were turned over to the street lighting committee. The pole claims of John Van Dinter and C. A. Glaser were recommended to the county.

WANT STUDENTS TO CARRY MEMORIAL TO CONGRESSMEN

When Outagamie-co rural school graduates go to Washington, D. C., for graduation exercises next June they may carry a memorial to congress, if it is in session, asking adoption of the proposed bill to have all government institutions discontinue using dairy substitutes.

This suggestion was made Monday to A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, and Gus Sell, county agent, by a committee from the Greenville faculty local. Charles Rolf was chairman of the committee which proposed the idea and other members of the committee were George Schmidt and Frank Reiner.

Both Mr. Sell and Mr. Meating are in accord with the plan suggested by the Greenville Farmers.

Auto Runs 59 Miles On Gallon of Gas

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They not only report amazing gas savings but are also surprised to find smoother running motors and disappearance of carbon. E. FOREIGN NATIONS ARE THROWING OFF THEIR TRADE SLUMP

Conditions in America Are Reflected at Once in Europe

BY J. C. ROYLE

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Washington — (CPA) — The "trade rheumatism" of the foreign nations is showing improvement and the twinges of financial pain which have accompanied this attack on the muscles of business movement are becoming less frequent. This attack has been a direct result of the business storm which has centered over the United States since the first of November.

Every time there is a business depression in the United States, the joints of world trade feel it just as a rheumatic knee feels the approach of a thunder storm. Reports from foreign nations indicate that trade is looking up and this in turn is evidence to the effect that conditions in America are brightening.

Foreign trade during the first two months of this year was not of imposing volume but reports from trade centers abroad are giving conclusive evidence that conditions in most nations of the world are sound.

This is especially true with regard to England, Germany, Italy and France. It is also true of the great new markets which the United States has built up in Latin America.

U. S. LEADS WAY

The financial position of the United States is such that anything which affects this country has an immediate reflection on commerce and trade in the remainder of the world. Foreign nations have found it less easy to borrow in the United States and less easy to sell securities representing foreign investments to American financiers.

This check to the flow of credit has slowed down the tendency toward trade expansion abroad. The holdings of Americans in foreign securities have been lessened and this also has been a factor in keeping trade exchanges low.

The coffee situation has had a depression effect in many of the Central and South American countries. The imminence of the danger from over-supplies of coffee is gradually passing, however, and trade and financial conditions are bettering, except perhaps in Brazil.

The betterment in Europe came prominently to the fore with the reduction of the bank of England re-discount rate. It is quite apparent that had not the trade position of England shown a stability the action of the bank of England could scarcely have been taken.

Industrial Italy is prospering and so is industrial Germany. France is keeping nearly every factory actively engaged. The difficulty of the situation in France, however, is complicated by the apparent efforts of that country to lay stress on double taxation provisions on her statutes.

It is known here that old laws are being dug up and dusted off which would make American firms with factories in France pay to the French government in taxes, something like 50 per cent of their net profits. This situation, however, is expected soon to be ironed out by the state and treasury departments, as is indicated by the expressions of treasury department officials before congressional committees.

THINKS RUSS RAILWAYS WILL BUY U. S. STOCK

Denver — (AP) — The prediction that American manufacturers will be called upon during the next three years to fill orders for millions of dollars worth of rolling stock and other railroad equipment for Russia was made here yesterday by D. E. Sulimov, first vice commissar for transportation of the United Soviet Republics.

Enroute to Kansas City with a party of 14 Russian railway officials, Mr. Sulimov is making an intensive study of American railway methods.
"Since our tour of the United States has convinced us of our need for heavier locomotives and larger freight cars, such as our factories are not now equipped to furnish, it is likely that we will make the purchases in this country until such times as our factories are able to duplicate the equipment," said Sulimov.
"Our plan for the next three years call for 26,000 additional miles of railway, of which 15,000 are under construction."

ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Los Angeles — (AP) — Molly Ilene
Mack, motion picture actress, in a suit on file in superior court here today, asked a divorce from Anthony N. Zilles, known as the stage and screen as Emmet Corrigan. The suit, charging desertion, follows a separate maintenance action filed by the wife in June of last year. The couple separated in New York three years ago.

Healed Sore 18
Years Old

It seems rather a sweeping statement but Peterson's can back up the just claims of his powerfully healing and soothing Ointment with grateful letters from people who have been benefited.

Even one application takes out the soreness, starts to heal, discharge sores — it instantly relieves piles, bruises, insect bites, chafed and itching skin — it banishes pimpls, blackheads and Eczema in a few days.

One 35 cent box proves it — all druggists.
Robert Phillips of New Salem, Ind., writes: "For 18 yrs. I had an old fever sore on my ankle. I spent hundreds of dollars on it and found no relief. I saw your ad and tried Peterson's Ointment — it gave me ease and enabled me to sleep for first time in 7 weeks. I kept using it and now my leg is sound and well, thanks to you."

ANOTHER SMOKE SCREEN

Opponents of city manager government are charging that the Post-Crescent, in its analysis of city hall costs, failed to so itemize the account "Mayor and Alderman" as it appeared in the city audit to show the exact amount of money paid to the Post-Crescent for legal advertising in 1929. They would have the taxpayers believe that the money paid the Post-Crescent last year was one of the reasons for the high cost of government under the aldermanic system.

The Post-Crescent last year did receive $3,413 from the city of Appleton for legal advertising authorized by the common council. It included reports of council proceedings and publication of ordinances as required by the state code. While The Post-Crescent was glad to get this business it did not solicit it. It had nothing whatsoever to do with determining the amount of legal advertising which appeared in this newspaper.

Defenders of the aldermanic form, hard pressed to justify the tremendous cost of aldermanic government and high taxes, are attempting to create a smoke screen around such expenditures as $165,000 for street lighting, cleaning and repairs by directing attention to the $3,400 paid to The Post-Crescent. They want the people to forget that aldermanic government in 1929 cost the people of Appleton a total of $806,000, while Janesville, with city manager government, paid all its bills with $415,000. It is so much easier to talk about $3,400 paid to The Post-Crescent than to explain why city government in Appleton last year cost $389,000 more than in Janesville.

THE LONDON CONFERENCE

Once more the negotiations at London face a "crisis" in the opinion of pessimists of those who wish to see the conference fail. It is, they assert, dangerously near the rocks. France is expected to queer the proceedings by demands England and the United States will not accede to. Italy insists upon parity with France and that is another stumbling block. The conference is about to break up, the shrewd analysts declare, without an agreement.

As a matter of fact, the conference is proceeding along perfectly normal lines. There has not been anything in it surprising or really disconcerting. Everyone knew approximately the position France would take, even before the conference was called, because she had publicly announced her attitude. The same is true of Italy. Advance positions were taken by three of the secondary naval powers as soon as it became known that the United States and Great Britain were in accord as to the basis of a five-power treaty.

The disputes and impasses of the last few days and weeks always are a part of conferences of this nature. There are differences of viewpoint to reconcile and they present some difficulties, otherwise a conference would not be necessary. However, the mere fact that one nation puts forth conditions unacceptable to the others does not mean a rupture. There is always a basis for trading and compromise and it exists in the present situation. Everyone high in authority expects and predicts an agreement. It is only those who skirt about the outside and "know" too much that see disagreement.

Of course, in this country our militarists and isolationists are doing everything possible to discredit and break up the conference, but their propaganda will have little effect. It will scarcely be noticed at London. It will make itself most felt in the senate when the treaty comes up for ratification. In the meantime the public can rest assured that the chances are altogether in favor of an adjustment of existing differences and the conclusion of a treaty.

It is estimated that a world population of nearly 2,000,000,000, about 685,000,000 are Christians; 15,000,000 Jews; 200,000,000 Mohammedans; 150,000,000 Buddhists; 230,000,000 Hindus; and 350,000,000 Confucians and Taoists.

The Post-Mortem

SO MOSCOW is about to close fifty-six more churches and convert them into schools, museums, work shops and the like. Some how, despite the fact that we get to church practically not at all, we still object to what the Soviet is doing. Of course, the official statement says that the churches are being closed "upon demand of the people and public organizations," but the obvious hypocrisy only makes it worse.

Why Don't You Invite Us Too? We Started It

Dear Jonah:
I am calling a meeting of all those who are interested in the drive to abolish Monday mornings.

I expect that Ramblin' Red, Rudolph of the Bayou, the Peddler, the Kitchen Cynic, Hortense, the Literary-minded-housewife, the Burstout* and others of Post-Mortem fame will be present.

The group will gather in the belfry of the church at midnight some night. Everyone will be masked.

Save a space for me. I'll report further on our activities.

THOUGHTS

While Driving on U. S. 41 and 141 to Iron Mountain, Michigan

St. Patrick's Day. Memories of the good old days in Chicago when we were kids. We used to have a bright green tie and our friends would wear a yellow one to kid us. Wonders what George, Pat, Mike and Bill are doing? . . . Kaukauna's usual odor? . . . Why doesn't Green Bay seem as clean as Appleton? . . . Wonder if I'll make it to Iron Mountain? . . . Seems like summer? . . . Abrams, now for the soup? . . . Bad hole, wonder how long I'd been there if I got stuck? Close shave? . . . Wonder what a highway patrolman thinks of? . . . Car turned over, wonder if anyone was hurt? . . . Farmer with green shamrock, didn't think there were any Irish farmers, only cops? . . . Old buggy beneath high tension wire, how did it get there? . . . Another bad hole? . . . Wonder if this road will ever be paved? . . . Wonder how the golf game will be this year? Glad I cleaned the golf clubs yesterday. Wish it were summer? . . . Sporty golf courses on my territory? . . . Gosh, it sure gets lonely driving by myself? . . . Wonder what rattles under my car? . . . Snow on the roadside. Seems colder as the Michigan line draws near. There it is, only six more miles to the concrete. What a relief!

Today's Anniversary

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

On March 20, 1852, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," a book by Harriet Beecher Stowe which is said to have hastened the overthrow of slavery, was published in book form for the first time.

When the story first appeared in the National Era of Washington, D. C., as a serial, it attracted little attention, but a few weeks after it was issued in book form it was a universal favorite. During the next five years more than 500,000 copies were sold in the United States alone.

Although "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was written carelessly and sensational, it aroused public conscience wherever it circulated. Critics say the secret of the book's effect upon the issue of slavery was less the story, or its descriptive power, than its sincerity.

Regardless of the literary merits of the book, the characters Uncle Tom, Simon Legree and little Eva have become traditional in American literature.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Thursday, March 23, 1905

Athol Rollins, Oshkosh, a graduate of Lawrence university with the class of 1904, had been declared the winner of the Cell Rhodes scholarship, having received the highest standing in a competitive examination which was open to students of all educational institutions in Wisconsin.

E. G. Jones left that day on a western business trip.

Miss Effie Anderson arrived home the night before from Chicago where she had been visiting her mother and sisters for several weeks.

Mrs. George Miller entertained at her home on N. Division st. the preceding Wednesday afternoon.

Noter Dame and Beloit were to come to Appleton for a baseball game with Lawrence university, that spring, according to the schedule made up by Coach Church.

Mrs. L. E. Glaser, Richmond st.

A library consisting of from 50 to 60 volumes by the best authors was to be installed at the new armory in the near future, according to plans being made by the company.

TEN YEARS AGO

Thursday, March 18, 1920

Herbert Hoover that day declared the peace treaty should be accepted, "so long as the final form gives us freedom of action and room for constructive development of peace."

Miss Gladys Ives Brainard, of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music, was to take part in the concert to be given in the Auditorium, Milwaukee, the following Sunday afternoon by the Milwaukee Symphony orchestra.

About 100 couples attended the dance given by Company A of the state guards at the armory the previous Wednesday evening.

The convention of the Fox Valley Jewelers' association was to be held that afternoon and evening at the Sherman House.

Mrs. August Kneupel left that morning for Monmouth, Ill., to visit her daughter, Mrs. C. Green.

Efforts to double the membership of the Appleton Lodge of Moose were to be made through a membership campaign opening April 1 and continuing three months.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — When an eligible senator shows a leaning toward matrimony it is soon a subject for lively discussion in Washington. Announcement of his engagement causes a stir.

Take, for example, the marriage of Senator Dill of Washington to "General" Rosalie Jones, leader in the women's suffrage movement. This event of three years ago was something of a sensation. It was proclaimed there would be no "obey" for the bride of Senator Dill in the marriage ceremony.

Answer — I hereby offer a copy of Rosenau's Preventive Medicine and Hygiene to any reader who can show that I have even contended any such thing. Whenever I refer to that at all I particularly point out that the amount of sunlight received in the basement or upper floors is the only factor of importance, and some basements do receive as much as upper floors do.

Experience Speaks

I was in France three years. While out of the trenches on rest we sometimes stayed in huts and colds and coughs would become common. I had "cold in the head" several times.

Answer — Thank you, kind lady. Maybe now the gossips will let that one lie for a while.

Correction

Your contention that it is as healthy to live in the cellar as in sunny rooms is hardly borne out by our experience when we try to grow other plants or children there. (Mrs. H. W. S.)

Answer — Thank you, kind lady. I was just beginning to go about some. When I first came here, now I seem very little in society. Even now I seem to have little time for that sort of thing.

Millard Tydings, the young senator from Maryland, is said to be a bit more responsive. He owns a beautiful home in Georgetown.

Bronson Cutting of New Mexico has the reputation of being an engaging dinner companion. His keen sense of humor and wit are well known. But he is content to spend most of his time with his mother in their home in Georgetown.

Freddy Hale of Maine is such a confirmed bachelor that his name is never linked with marriage.

SOME RETIRING

Arthur Capper is the recognized leader of the senate's dancing bloc. He goes in for things social to a great extent.

Sen. Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, another bachelor, will not even give his name in his biography in the Congressional Directory. Sen. Bob Wagner of New York and Sen. Park Trammell of Florida are both confirmed bachelors.

I will undertake to say that 85 per cent of the tax payers in our county would vote against it if they had an opportunity to do so.

Our county board killed a resolution to submit this question at the April election to those who always pay the bill.

Respectfully submitted,

Seen And Heard
In New York

BY RICHARD MASSECK

New York — Lilian Gish and Fannie Hurst the other evening were invited to an uptown school of acting to listen while a young man read Shakespeare.

Aspiring youngsters, hopeful of becoming ingenues and leading men upon graduation, also paid close attention when their classmate appeared.

For he was none other than the grandson of William Jennings Bryan and the celebrated guests were a couple of his mother's friends.

BRYAN JUNIOR

The serious son of Congresswoman Ruth Bryan Owen, who has taken the name of his silver tongued forebear and is known as John Bryan, does not intend to practice the art of oratory that made his grandfather illustrious. Nor does he intend to become an actor.

Instead he has the leanings toward playwriting.

The course in which he was entered last November, however, is not along that line, either. It is designed, rather, to overcome a natural reticence and to cultivate whatever speaking talents may lie inherent in the shy youth, who appears to be 19 or 20 years old.

William Faversham and Mary Pickford took a similar course in the same school.

John Bryan's talents, according to his teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Claude M. Alvirene, also run to poetry and paintings. When not reciting Shakespeare, in which he is said by his tutors to be especially good, he reads monologues which he makes up. One of these is a burlesque characterization of a pedantic, small-time professor, which he delivered in class with almost professional composure.

ALMA MATER

Others beside John Bryan and Mary Pickford who have been pupils of the Alvirene's are Fred and Adele Astaire, Lee Tracy, Evelyn Law the Dolly Sisters and numerous stars of similar magnitude.

It was Mr. Alvirene, in fact, who gave the Astaire's their name. Out in Omaha the sister and brother were named Austerlitz. The Dolly sisters were named, however, by their mother. As Yancsi and Roszika Deutsch, they had just arrived from Hungary when they came around to learn dancing. Their mama, who brought them, called the pair "my dolls" and the name stuck.</

STATE LUMBERMEN WILL AID FARMERS IN DAIRY BATTLE

Convention Decides to Work
With Groups to Increase Consumption

Word was received Wednesday by Gus Sell, county agent, from the state department of agriculture that the Wisconsin Retail Lumber Dealers association, at their recent convention, voted unanimously to back up the Wisconsin dairy industry. Many Outagamie-co lumber dealers belong to the association and will take an active part in the program as outlined by the state association. The state program follows:

1. The use of nothing but butter and dairy products in mills, factories and lumber camps.
2. The use of their advertising space for the promotion of dairy products consumption.
3. The use of their window space for dairy exhibits.
4. The distribution of mills to workers in their manufacturing plants.
5. The use of more dairy products in their homes.
6. Cooperation with county agents in every way possible to further the agricultural programs of the various counties.

DISPLAY PICTURES AND RELICS OF PRESIDENTS

Relics and pictures of American presidents including Grant, Arthur, Garfield, Cleveland, and Hayes are on display in the Lawrence college museum of American history this week. Included in the exhibit are various presidential documents. Of special interest to admiring of Grant is a formal document issued to a soldier by the warrior president and signed with his official seal.

In addition to the presidential exhibit, there are several other items of interest to Appleton visitors. A copy of the Appleton city directory, published in April, 1875, both in excellent condition are being shown.

CLOTHES REALLY DO MAKE THE MAN

Pullman, Wash.—Clothes do make the man, or at least help to make him, according to Helen K. Robson of the Department of Home Economics, Department of Home Economics, State College of Washington.

Miss Robson advocates that: "Clothes can make us feel very contented and happy or they can produce just the reverse feeling in us. Being well dressed is a part of the balance between happiness, personal ability, and efficiency both physical and mental."

"Self-confidence born of that sense of clothes fitness has accomplished much in many difficult situations.

"There is freedom of spirit attending the wearing of attractive, well-fitting garments, which influences both the wearer and the beholder. Appearance does count."

Stops Acute Kind in Few Minutes

— What a Blessing

Here's a delightful elixir with plenty of real pepsin, some Menthol and just enough of several other stomach correctives to make it capable of putting almost any weak, rundown, abused stomach in first class shape—and it tastes like the most palatable nectar.

The men who created this supremely good formula know their business—they don't believe in nasty tasting medicine and the people are with them for Darc's Mentha Pepsin—that's the name—is having a tremendous sale all over the country. They have passed along the word to every druggist in the country that Darc's Mentha Pepsin doesn't bring sereno comfort to any wornout, rundown, sickly gassy stomach that the owner of that most important internal organ can have his or her money back.

Stubborn Indigestion of years standing is hard to get rid of, but Darc's Mentha Pepsin will do it; one real enthusiastic druggist asserts—it's a real pepsin in liquid form—the right way to take pepsin. Voigt's Bros. Co. and Voigt's Drug Store always have a big supply on hand. adv.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

By George Clark

"Let's play like we're at a party."

Make Holes Large Enough When Planting Your Trees

In planting trees, the hole should be dug considerably larger than the spread of the roots and deep enough to allow a goodly amount of loose soil to be left in the bottom before the tree is planted. As the soil is removed the topsoil should be placed in a pile separate from the subsoil.

Any fertilizer that is to be used can be mixed thoroughly with the soil or covered in the hole in such a way that it will not come in direct contact with the roots of the plants. If the subsoil is very hard and heavy it should be broken up. Frequently it is thought that if the hard soil taken out is not used and good soil substituted, the tree will have a better chance, but this is not always the case. Water will easily penetrate all loose soil and failing to escape, will settle around the tree, often causing it to die. Thus it is best to provide drainage by breaking up the subsoil and if drainage is provided, any amount of good soil can be used to fill the hole if it seems desirable.

The trees should be pruned as shown in the figure. In removing broken or diseased parts of roots, the cut should be clean and sharp and so slanted that the exposed surface will be toward the bottom of the hole. This insures a more ready contract between the root end and the soil, thus providing a better water supply and better chances for an early and quick growth of new roots.

In planting the tree, cover the bottom of the hole with a layer of loose subsoil in which manure or fertilizer has been thoroughly mixed.

Place the tree in the hole, spreading the roots out naturally and cover well with topsoil. The soil can be worked in about the roots by shaking the tree up and down and by working a stick the size of a broom handle in among the roots as the soil is thrown in. After the roots are covered with soil, the ground should be firmed about them by packing the ground with the feet.

When the soil thrown in about the roots is not fine enough to prevent the formation of little air pockets, a good soaking will be of great help.

The water will wash loose soil particles into these voids and around the roots. Soaking or puddling the ground about trees is also beneficial when the tree is planted late in the season after the buds have started to swell. The puddling will do the same work that the rains would have done had the tree been planted earlier in the season.

In filling the hole, the dirt should not be left heaped about the tree in a mound that will shed the water. If there is soil about the tree, the hole should be left at a level below the soil.

STUDENTS VOTE ON "EUROPE" PROJECT

If Ballot Is Favorable, Committee Will Proceed With Plans

The Lawrence college student body voted yesterday on the "student to Europe" project undertaken annually by Lawrence undergraduates.

Student support as indicated by popular vote is part of the original project, according to William Morton, Marinette, chairman of the committee in charge. If the vote today is favorable the committee will go ahead in the work of selecting the student to be honored and of making plans for the financial campaign.

The student to Europe project, Chairman Morton outlined in chapel last Friday, is purely a scholarship move and must be sanctioned by the student body as such before it can be successful. Morton dismissed the idea of the student to Europe being an emblem of "good will."

In a letter received from Edgar Koch, present Lawrence student in Europe, he said, "I believe that the project is the greatest single thing ever voluntarily and cooperatively attempted by the students and faculty at Lawrence. I see no end to its possibilities."

FIRE LOSS LAST MONTH SHOWED BIG DECREASE

Appleton's fire loss in February was only $2,000 as compared to $18,700 loss in February, 1929, according to the monthly report of Fire Chief George McMillan. The department made 13 runs last month as compared to 19 in the same month last year. Seven of the runs last month were to chimney fires and two fires resulted from sparks from chimneys. One fire was caused by a cigarette and another was caused by an overheated furnace. A sputtering alarm caused one run and one fire resulted from unknown causes.

UTILITIES MUST PAY INCOME, PROPERTY TAX

Madison—Wisconsin utility concerns must pay both income and property taxes, the state tax commission has ruled in an opinion signed by Edward L. Kelley, chairman.

Some of the utilities had protested that a provision in the law exempted them from paying both forms of taxes. Before he finished the ride he was arrested and charged with drunkenness, operating while under the influence of liquor, operating without a license, and four other charges.

Party Opens Club Rooms Of Eagles

The formal opening of the remodeled club rooms of Fraternal Order of Eagles took place Wednesday night in the form of a St. Patrick stag party. Past President John Goodland, Jr., the speaker of the evening, outlined the history of Appleton aerie No. 574, from its organization in 1903 to the present time. Woodland served two years as president of the aerie.

Past President A. G. Koch gave a detailed description of the organization of the Eagles' Association in 1912 when the present home was purchased from the Harmonie club. He told of the building of an addition in 1920 and the installing of bowling alleys at that time, and he spoke of the first plans for the present addition which were approved last December.

Francis J. Rooney, past president, gave a talk on St. Patrick and Ireland. Fred Bachman, city treasurer, spoke of the accomplishments of Fraternal Order of Eagles locally, and F. F. Wheeler and Stanley Staidl gave short addresses. Robert McGillican entertained with Irish and German stories.

Elmer Koerner, president, turned the meeting over to Judge F. V. Heinemann, past president, who introduced the speakers and announced the numbers on the program. Music was provided by an orchestra composed of Joseph Salomaski; accordion, Ed Le Pond; organ, Leo Landrie; violin, Charles Nagreen; guitar, "Pep" Doerfer; banjo, Walter Nissen; mouth organ; Howard Gruber; snare drum; and Ed Torino; bass drum. Community singing of well known songs took place during the evening. After the social meeting, a perch fry was held. Henry Staeft was general chairman of arrangements for the affair.

At the business session which took place before the social hour, a committee consisting of officers of the aerie was appointed and instructed to draw up a resolution supporting and urging the adoption of a bill introduced in the United States senate increasing the amount of pensions to be granted to Spanish American War veterans. A committee consisting of Past Worthy Presidents Judge F. V. Heinemann and A. G. Koch, and Past Secretary Judge Theodore Berg was appointed to draw up a resolution urging the congressmen and United States senators to support and vote for federal aid to state having old age pensions. This bill provides for an appropriation of $10,000,000.

Favorable action was taken on a communication from the state convention committee of Oshkosh regarding the local aerie to obtain the state delegates on Tuesday afternoon, which will be the feature of the afternoon with a lunch to be served at the local hall. A memorial committee with Past President Frank Hinrich as chairman and Past Presidents Otto Gilly and Charles Schrimpf as assistants, was appointed to make arrangements for a memorial service to be held at Trinity English Lutheran church Sunday afternoon, April 6.

SAYS OFFICERS TRIED TO FRAME BUYERS OF FUR

Newbury, Mich. (AP)—Rumor has it that a "rumored plan" by Marquette's conservation officers to entrap buyers into illegal deals were laid bare today in the trial of former Warden Julius Thorsen.

Testimony came from William Kropf, who called himself a "whole-some frame" from Kropf that Thorsen had hired him to act as the entrappor. Thorsen is on trial with two deputies, Fred Kimmel and Bert Furst, charged with perjury.

Kropf said he "squealed" on his superiors because the latter refused to pay for gasoline used on the "frameup traps." Thorsen and his aides were arrested and brought here for trial because of the high feeling in Marquette.

The Story of Sue by MARGERY HALE © 1929 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

CLASPED around Corinne's

Wrist was a linked silver bracelet, generously set with dark blue sapphires.

"Harry had heard me say that I wished I had a bracelet, so I guess he figured that if you gave a woman, even a high school kid, what she wanted, she'd forgive and forget. And since it's all in the family I told him I would."

"Corinne, you don't mean that you made him think maybe you wouldn't?" Sue asked wonderingly.

"Sure. It's good to keep them guessing, and if he's going to be my brother-in-law it's better to start now. Besides, it will be a big help to you, too. Harry is very nice. Sue," Corinne talked on, more reflectively now. "Sometimes I'm sure you don't appreciate him. And he was so frightened about you. He would have given his last cent to find you. He likes you ever so much. Sue, he'd give everything up for you, and after all he just gave me a kiss."

Her voice was so impish again.

Long after Corinne had gone to sleep, Sue lay and thought. Instead of being tired it seemed to her that every muscle was taut and her eyes were wide and burning. She tried to relax and could not. The clock in the living room had struck five times with its soft, mellow tones before she finally fell asleep.

But she was rested and better when she awoke. She glanced at her watch and noticed that it was 12 o'clock. Downstairs she could hear Corinne, who was home from school for lunch, talking merrily. She bathed and dressed quickly, putting on a flowered print house dress whose gay blossoms glowed in a garden of blue and crimson and yellow. It seemed good to have on something soft and clean. Her eyes were sparkling again, at the excitement which the day would bring. She wondered what the papers would say... and people would drop in one by one to see her now.

Last night she hadn't wanted to talk about the kidnapping, but this morning, with the sunshine dancing in yellow patterns on the floor and in the pulsing about her, she didn't mind.

She ran downstairs, singing under her breath, and stopped quickly at the foot of the steps. Half a dozen people, all strange, sprang up as she entered.

"From the papers, Sue," Mrs. Meryman, coming into the hall, explained. "They've been trying to see you all morning but I would not let them in. Do you mind talking to them for a few minutes?"

"I promise we won't make you talk too much," a merry, friendly voice spoke for the assembled press representatives. "And we'll even put the commas where you want them in the story. I'm Donald Payne from The News."

Sue decided that she liked him at once. He was young, not more than 22 or 23, and he had red hair that bristled and gray eyes that were both shrewd and laughing under his red-brown brows.

"How long have you been engaged to Mr. Becker?" the only girl in the group asked. There was a little glint in her eyes which seemed to say that she knew very well it was a very recent affair and that Sue had made her announcement immediately for Harry might change his mind.

"Why, I..." Sue started slowly, but the red-headed reporter interrupted.

INVESTMENT TRUST RESULTS LAST YEAR ARE DISAPPOINTING

Reorganizations and consolidations Aftermath of Stock Crash

BY PRESTON S. KRECKER

Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

Wall Street, New York—(CPA)—It is generally admitted that results accomplished by investment trusts last year, the first for many of them, were disappointing and much below popular expectation at the time trusts were enjoying the astonishing vogue they had before the stock market break.

The mushroom growth of investment trusts was one of the most amazing phenomena of the great bull campaign. It is estimated that altogether nearly 300 new trusts were created in 1928 and 1929, of which almost 200 were formed last year alone.

The total number of such financial companies in the United States today is nearly 500, the best authorities estimate. Their combined capital funds are placed at about five and a quarter billion dollars. By way of contrast, there were less than 20 in investment trusts in the whole country prior to 1922 and their capital funds amounted to only about $250,000.

Owing to the incomplete nature of the majority of investment trust reports for last year, only general conclusions can be reached regarding their operations. Several things appear to be pretty definitely established, however. One is that most trusts made indifferent profits, while many showed losses. An analysis of twenty-three reports which were fairly complete shows an average net income of 8.9 per cent earned on total capital funds before interest charges and taxes. The old trust fared better as a rule than the newly organized companies.

MARKET APPRAISAL LOW

In the second place, market appraisal of the portfolios of nearly two thirds of all reporting trusts was less than cost at the end of the year. The majority of trusts, moreover, are paying no dividends, either in cash or stock. A number which were paying something when the market was going well have passed dividends.

Those results explain why most investment trust shares are selling for less than book value in contrast with the market situation last summer and early fall, when they were selling at premiums. There is a plain disillusionment of the public to buy trust shares now.

It is evident that too many trusts were organized late in the bull campaign, with the result that they invested when stocks were at the peak of the greatest bull market ever witnessed. The inevitable break caught them loaded with high priced securities, and although many trusts had cash reserves which were invested after the break, they could not raise their average value up to the average cost. As of Dec. 31, trusts seemed to be pretty well tied up in stocks. An analysis of 84 companies with capital funds totaling $2,700,000,000 shows that only $17,000,000 of those funds were liquid at the close of last year.

Reorganizations, consolidations and readjustments have been the aftermath of last year's beat. Indications are that few new trusts will be organized this year, while a number not merged or liquidated will disappear.

Only about a dozen investment trusts have listed their issues on the New York stock exchange, which has framed special regulations governing listing with a view to protecting the public. On the other hand, some of the strongest and most successful trusts are among those which have not desired listing.

MARS RIGHT HAND IDENTIFIED BY LEFT

Chicago—(AP)—The aid administration about not letting your left hand know about the right may have been all right for some people but it headed Jim McLoish right back to jail the St. Sylvester State prison from which he escaped in 1923.

Three detectives picked Ray up yesterday—on suspicion. At the station they found Ray had gnawed the fingers of his right hand mutilating them beyond identification.

"What's your name?" asked the man with the ink pen.

John Carroll, 21, of the left hand showed him to be McLoish.

BANDITS' DEMANDS NOT MAPPED CLEARLY

El Paso, Texas—(AP)—Rescue plans for J. E. Bristow, 60-year-old American oil operator, who was held for ransom by bandits, near Mazatlan, Mexico, today awaited a definite determination of the amount of money sought by the kidnappers.

Word from the scene of the kidnapping has stated that both $3,000 and 10,000 pesos were demanded. American Vice-Consul Eaton, at Mazatlan, has gone to Tepic, Nayarit, Mexico, to determine definitely the amount of ransom sought.

Gordon Obie Bristow of San Angelo, Texas, son of the prisoner, arrived here by airplane today. He expects to take the money to the bandits.

If no word is received by tomorrow morning, Young Bristow said he would take a plane to Mazatlan.

The El Paso Times last night received reports that the Mexican government had ordered federal troops to effect the release of Bristow, who was captured by the bandits while he was prospecting for oil

Talks To Parents

ALONE TO SCHOOL
By Alice Judson Peale

When is a child old enough to go to school by himself?

It is a simple question which is frequently asked and to which there is, unfortunately, no fixed answer.

Going to school alone like a good many other things that we are anxious to have children learn is something which depends on a variety of circumstances and on the particular child with whom we have to deal.

The six-year-old who attends a suburban or a country school which is not far away from home and who needs to make few crossings on unfrequented thoroughfares can often manage quite nicely all by himself.

On the other hand the child who attends a school in the midst of the traffic in a big city may need an adult to take him until he is 11 or 12.

Not only is the location of the school to be considered but also the type of child. Some children naturally learn very early to cope with concrete, practical situations. Others, as we say, have their heads in the clouds.

This last sort of child needs to be taught very carefully how to conduct himself at street crossings. He should be taught to wait at the curb until the street is clear or the traffic policeman signals him to come across. He must be helped gradually to develop his independence.

Instead of taking him all the way to school we may after a time leave him at a certain corner. We may let him cross streets by himself under our watchful eyes.

But by bit he will learn to take care of himself until at last he is able to take the entire journey on his own.

Whole Bay State Becomes Fair Grounds For Celebration Of Tercentenary

When Massachusetts celebrates the tercentenary of the Massachusetts Bay colony this year, the coming to the colony of the first governor, John Winthrop (upper left), will be re-enacted. At upper right is the old statehouse, built in 1713. The foreground was the scene of the Boston Massacre, circle indicates spot where first blood was shed. At lower left is the present state house and a lower right the present governor, Frank G. Allen.

BY JOHN B. KNOX

Boston—(AP)—Three hundred years of American life will pass in review during 1930 as the old Bay State observes the Massachusetts Bay tercentenary.

From spring until the onset of winter, from the surf-swept rocks of the Atlantic coast to the rolling Berkshire hills, there will be pageants, parades, religious services, conventions, expositions, pilgrimages, fairs, music festivals, open house at historic shrines and exhibitions of historical treasures in commemoration of the anniversary.

First among the three leading events to be commemorated is the three hundredth anniversary of the establishment of the Massachusetts Bay colony in New England by the Puritans and the setting up of an independent civil government in the colony.

Celebration of the coming of free government, the germ of later American independence, is to be the keynote of the observance.

The arrival of Gov. John Winthrop at Salem, June 12, 1630, with the charter signalized the transfer of independent government to America for the first time in the history of the colony.

Old-time manners and customs will be definitely in evidence, however. New Englanders, quaintly dressed in the garb of three centuries ago, will mingle on the streets with modern throngs. Historic shrines, seldom accessible, may be visited. The ducking stool, stocks and pillory will be resurrected—for exhibition purpose.

SEVERAL NATIONS PRESS ITALY IN MAKING SILK

Rome—(AP)—Italy ranks next to the United States in the production of artificial silk, but three other countries—England, Germany and France, are threatening to supplant her in second place.

The third is a group of anniversaries—the founding of Boston, Charlestown, Medford, Watertown, Roxbury, Newton, Dorchester, Cambridge and Brookline.

The leaders of the tercentenary, from the first have planned upon a celebration that would be different from a world's fair, with its artificially created central exposition.

Instead, the entire state and section become the fair grounds and the genuine treasures of the state historic, scenic and modern, become the exhibits.

Several years ago Italy had extensive exportation markets in England, Germany, and the United States, but these countries rapidly developed their own silk.

Italy now has turned to India, China and South America.

The usual things

It is difficult to imagine the world today without some of the things that make our living in it so pleasant and comfortable. How naturally we lift the telephone receiver, step into an automobile, and look for the news of the world in this newspaper—every day of our lives.

Another of these usual, invaluable things, accepted as part of the routine of existence, is the guidance given by the advertisements in this newspaper in supplying our wants from day to day. We read them. They help us to save time and money. And our lives go on more easily and more fully.

Every day the advertisements suggest ways in which we can get things we want with the greatest possible satisfaction to ourselves. They tell us of new conveniences and comforts of which we would not otherwise have known. They help us to get down-to-the-dollar satisfaction. They assure us of proved values.

Post-Crescent Advertisements are among the necessities today . . . read them regularly

LAND SALE DISPUTE RESULTS IN SLAYING

Gilman City, Mo.—(AP)—A feud which began over a dispute in the sale of 40 acres of land has brought death to John Lindsay, 70-year-old veterinary surgeon, at the hands of George Cramer, 72, a retired farmer.

Cramer shot and killed Lindsay yesterday in front of the Gilman City post office. Then he surrendered to the city marshal.

Several years ago Cramer was acquited by a jury on a charge of felonious assault brought after Lindsay and one of his sons suffered gun shot wounds while driving past Cramer's home.

TO COMMENT ON PLAN

"After nearly 10 years the Interstate Commerce commission has handed down such a plan. The plan is now open to criticism, favorable and unfavorable, and to suggestion for modification or changes.

It is generally conceded that to bring about consolidations in the public interest congress should enact more liberal legislation, or at least more specific legislation, so as to properly indicate its intent.

However, since the enactment of the 1920 law much water has gone over the dam and we do not hear so much about weak lines and the unenviable position that they and certain short line railroads were placed in. That urgency has disappeared but there still remains the desirability of allowing such economies as may be brought about by consolidations and also the leveling out of income so as to prevent excessive earnings by one road and to enable other roads to secure an adequate return.

HOLDING COMPANIES ISSUE

"There has developed also means which may be used to defeat the intent of congress in its regulatory powers over interstate commerce. These devices are known as holding companies and investment trusts. It is pointed out by the Interstate Commerce commission in the annual report that in their judgment these holding companies and investment trusts do not come under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce commission and therefore they desire congress to provide for an investigation as to the extent of these holding companies and investment trusts and their control or influence in the management of the railroads.

Developments clearly indicate that in a number of cases, holding companies have been formed for the purpose of avoiding having to go to the Interstate Commerce commission for permission to secure other railroads or controlling interests in them.

"For congress to enact any new legislation without having all of the facts in this connection would be to legislate in the dark. It is obvious that it will take some time either for the Interstate Commerce commission or a congressional committee to make an adequate inquiry into the activities of these holding companies. A thorough job must be done because these companies may not necessarily have actual control of the stock, but they may have what amounts to the same thing through the Interstate Commerce commission should prepare a plan for making a large number of strong railroads more profitable through absorption by the most profitable of the so-called weaker lines. This was to act as a guide to the railroads and to the public.

Broader Legislation Need Of Railroad Merger Issue

INTERLOCKING DIRECTORATES

"There is a different of opinion as to voluntary consolidation or compulsory consolidation. No one could object to voluntary consolidation if such consolidation is in the public interest. The public necessity is the vital question to settle. It is not whether it is to the interests of the railroads or the stockholders, but whether it is in the public interest of the entire transportation system.

No purpose is to be gained by compulsory consolidation, unless the failure to consolidate works greatly to the disadvantage of the public.

The whole problem of the financial situation, operating conditions, the railroads, the railroads and related factors must be given the fullest consideration through an ascertainment of the facts before congress can intelligently legislate on a matter which concerns the public welfare.

LAWRENCE GLEE CLUB APPEARS IN NEENAH CHURCH

Enthusiastic Audience Attends Spring Concert of College Singers

Neenah—The Lawrence College Glee club, under the direction of Dean Carl J. Waterman of the Conservatory of Music sang its annual spring concert here at the Baptist church Wednesday evening. The auditorium was filled to capacity with an appreciative audience.

There was a remarkable range of selections. Gounod's "Babylon's Fall" was exceptionally well sung, as was Franz Borschein's "The Sea."

The club responded to every suggestion and movement of Dean Waterman and produced effects reminding one of a great instrument in the hands of a skilled artist. The enunciation and shading showed the exceptional ability of the college organization.

The outstanding features were the solos of David Scoular, who responded to encores in a most generous manner. Mr. Scoular has gone far since his appearance with the club here last year and his songs were met with a tremendous ovation.

The violin solo of Wenzel Albrecht was well executed, showing fine technique for so young an artist. Russell Danburg, club accompanist, also was well received. His composition "Reverie" was sung as an encore by Mr. Scoular.

The concert was the second one of a series presented by the club, the first being sung at Manitowoc on Tuesday evening. The club will leave on its 1930 concert tour next Sunday, starting at Madison. The trip will cover 13 days. Neil Klausner of Neenah is club manager.

SCHNEIDER WOULD HELP LOST BAND OF INDIAN TRIBE

Introduces Bill Authorizing Investigation of Chippewas

BY RUBY A. BLACK

Post-Crescent Wash., Conn.
Washington—In an effort to obtain for them whatever benefits they are entitled to from the United States, Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton has introduced a bill authorizing an investigation of the situation of the Lost Band of Chippewas Indians of Wisconsin.

In Forest, Langlade and Oneida counties, these Chippewas live, without any aid of any kind from the government. They did not follow the portion of the tribe which went into Minnesota, nor did they ally themselves with the Lake Superior Chippewas of Wisconsin. For this reason they have no status with the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Representative Schneider's bill would direct the Secretary of the Interior to cause an investigation to be made to determine the condition and tribal rights of the homeless Chippewas in Wisconsin, said to be in a destitute condition.

After the investigation is made, the Secretary of the Interior would report to Congress saying whether or not these Chippewas belong to the Lake Superior Chippewas or to the Chippewas of Minnesota, what tribal rights they have, what benefits they would have received if they had gone to a reservation in Wisconsin.

The bill also requires a census and enrollment of these Indians and a report on their actual condition and needs, with recommendations for whatever relief they may need.

An appropriation of $3,000 for the expenses of the investigation is authorized in the bill.

Indian Commissioner C. J. Rhoads had the bill drafted in the bureau, but the bureau is not committed to its passage. The investigation could be made without congressional authorization, if the bureau had the money, he said, but he feels that it is better to have the sanction of Congress.

A similar investigation to determine the status of the lost band of St. Croix Chippewas was made as a result of a law passed by Congress in 1914.

BAGG DESCRIBES VICTORIA FALLS IN CHAPEL TALK

Water Drops from 400 to 500 Feet, Sending Up Mist, Vapor

"Words fail to describe the majestic grandeur of Victoria falls," Dr. R. M. Bagg, professor of geology and mineralogy at Lawrence college, told Lawrence students in a chapel talk Wednesday morning. The talk consisted of detailed description of the scenery in and around the great African waterfall.

Dr. Bagg told how for miles the great Zambezi river flows through a narrow gorge built by lava thrown up during the Caro period. The view from various points near the falls was pictured, particular emphasis being placed on Devil's cataract and Danger point.

Because the mist and vapor from the falls rises to a distance of 1,000 feet, the natives call it "the smoke that thunders," Dr. Bagg revealed. The tremendous size of the falls was brought out in the fact that in flood season, 100,000,000 gallons of water flow over its crest every minute, and that the water falls a perpendicular distance of from 400 to 500 feet.

Although Victoria is situated in a region showing few signs of civilization, a touch of realism is given it by a railroad bridge crossing the river just below the cataract. The bridge is 650 feet long and is suspended 350 feet above the water, so close to the falls that the tracks are constantly wet from spray even in the dry season. The difficulty of comparing Victoria with Niagara falls, is due to the difference in situation and surroundings, Dr. Bagg pointed out.

POSTPONE DEMOLAY PLAY INDEFINITELY

Because the dates picked conflict with other events planned for the same week and with a trip of the Lawrence glee club, several members of which were to take lead parts, the musical comedy planned by John F. Rose chapter of DeMolay has been postponed indefinitely. The dates of the play had originally been set for March 26 and 27.

The decision to drop the play for the time being was made at a meeting of the organization advisory council Monday evening at Masonic temple.

Waxes Wrath When Reminded About Trouble With Fight Commission

DALLAS, TEX.—(AP)—Declaring he was "sick of being bulldozed" by Charles Comiskey, Chicago White Sox owner, Art Shires, erstwhile first baseman, has announced that he never again will play with the team.

In a telephone conversation last night from his home in Italy, Tex., "Art the great," admitted he had received a telegram from Comiskey asking him "while participating in the fight ring, who suspended you and who produced the evidence that caused the reinstatement?"

"The boxing commissions have records of this," Shires declared. "But I'm not a bureau of information for Comiskey or anyone else. If Comiskey wants to know anything about the fight racket, let him go to the boxing commissions. They have all the dope. I wasn't guilty of any wrong doing."

He said he was going to ask the White Sox to place him on the voluntarily retired list, then planned to proceed with other plans, probably to play semi-pro ball in which he believed he could make more money than the Chicago club offered him.

Shires has been classed as a holdout since he failed to sign the first and only contract tendered him by the Sox management.

WEST COAST ELKS WIN AND LOSE IN APPLETON MATCHES

EIKETTES BEAT WOMEN'S TEAM, but Men Bowlers Humble Invaders

APPLETON bowlers divided honors with the Los Angeles Elk and Elkettes teams on local lodges alleys Wednesday evening. The Elkettes triumphed over a group of Appleton girl bowlers 2428 to 2183, while the west coast Elk team dropped a decision to the Appleton Elks, 2618 to 2545.

What was probably the largest crowd ever to watch an exhibition on Appleton alleys saw the games and cheered and applauded both groups as particularly hard cleanups were made.

Appleton Elk bowlers capped off the three games from their brothers from the west. The first was an $81 to $17 decision, the second $96 to $67 and the third $81 to $61. Bohlen of the invaders had high score with a 569 as result of 156, 225 and 183. High series for the Appleton team was rolled by W. C. Jacobson with a 559. High single games were two 200's, one by Fries, the other by Jacobson.

The Elkettes capped three straight from the Appleton women bowlers, the scores being 793 to 713, 837 to 745 and 792 to 705. Ellen Dunn had high game and high series, a 174 and 454 respectively, for the Appleton team. G. Bohlen of the Elkettes had high series and high game of the match, a 522 and a 201.

GIANTS NOT VERY IMPRESSIVE IN SPRING PRACTICE

But Clan McGraw Has the Making of Good Club and May Get Started Soon

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — (AP) — Behind with their training schedule and smarting from a series of lusty licks at the hands of a supposedly weaker club, John McGraw and his Giants are not in a happy frame of mind as they prepare to wind up spring labors here.

Just around the corner, so to speak, is a National league campaign, and the McGraw men are not ready. First, there was a bumper crop of holdouts, and the big guns strangled in slowly. Then the weather became capricious, and the boys have taken too many of their workouts on the overstuffed interior furniture.

As a fitting climax, the New York entry has been taking it on the chin with alarming regularity in practice work bouts with the Chicago White Sox, who apparently have thrived on Texas weather.

There is consolation for the veteran pilot, however, in that premise that no team as good as his can go on being bad forever. Except for what has come to be an annual pain in the region of second base, the Giants appear to be a thoroughly healthy organization. They had enough to finish third in the last race. The club certainly is no weak edge.

Eddie Marshall, a rangy youngster who compiled a .316 batting average with Bridgeport last year, appears ready to plug that gap at second. He and Andy Reese, who essayed the task most of last year, have waged a lively scrap for a month, with Marshall holding an edge.

Big Bill Terry, who whaled the ball at a .372 clip last year, leaves little to be desired at first, and Travis Jackson and Freddie Lindstrom are, of course, fixtures at short and third.

Melvin Ott, who cracked 179 hits, including 42 homers last year, again may be expected to supply the big punch in the outfield. He was about the only punch last year, excepting the veteran, Eddie Roush, who hit .324 in 115 games. Chick Fullis and Fred Leach, other members of last year's fly chasing corps, did no hitting to speak of. A trio of newcomers who may put additional power in the outer works are Johnny Mostil, obtained from the White Sox, and Sam Leslie and George Fisher, slugging recruits from Memphis and Buffalo.

Although his chucks have been slow to attain top form, McGraw is untroubled about that department. In Carl Ilubell and Bill Walker he has a pair of the niftiest southpaws in the business, and Larry Ben-

FRESCO THOMPSON REPORTS TO PHILLIES

Winter Haven, Fla. — (AP) — Captain Fresco Thompson, the last of the Phillies regulars to report, was expected to reach here today or tomorrow. Manager Shotton announced.

"And with Thompson back at second," Shotton said, "we will be ready to go in three weeks. Talk that he is to be traded is ridiculous. He wants to play for us and I think we will be together after a little talk."

Thompson's difficulty with the club is said to be a "personal matter," and not one of salary.

ALEX METZLER QUILTS WHITE SOX HOLDOUTS

San Antonio, Tex. — (AP) — Outfielder Alex Metzler, the last of the Chicago White Sox holdouts, has agreed to his contract terms and is on his way to camp.

Fred Fitzsimmons, Joe Gennrich and old John Scott are veterans who can be depended upon for a bundle of wins if they get a fair share of the breaks.

Among the most promising of the youngsters seeking a place on the payroll are Joe Heving, bought from Memphis; Jim Ternant, a big fireballer from York, Pa.; Leroy Parmelee from Toledo, and Ralph Judd. Then there is the veteran "Hub" Pruit, back from another fling at the majors after winning 15 out of 22 for Newark last season.

Bob O'Farrell and the large Francis Hogan again will team up to give the Giants a great catching staff.

Although his chucks have been slow to attain top form, McGraw is untroubled about that department. In Carl Ilubell and Bill Walker he has a pair of the niftiest southpaws in the business, and Larry Ben-

Chemists Making Fuel For Automobiles From Alcohol

Chemists of the United States and Europe are making progress with alcohol as a substitute fuel for gasoline in automobiles.

These experts now say they are prepared to offer the motorist an even more efficient fuel when the present oil supply has dwindled.

Furthermore, they add, there will be no worry over the future supply of alcohol as alcohol is a natural plant product made easily from vegetables and other materials that heretofore have been wasted.

It's BETTER THAN GASOLINE

Experiments made by a large British company show that alcohol is much more efficient than benzol or gasoline in preventing engine knock. This company has produced an alcohol that is almost entirely free from water, which can be mixed with gasoline in any proportion. Plans are being made to prepare such mixtures as antiknock fuels.

But an American chemist expert on alcoholic fuels goes further with the statement that the proper fuel is pure alcohol alone.

In England in order to solve

He is Dr. Henry Arnstein of Philadelphia.

Dr. Arnstein says that alcohol can be produced cheaper than gasoline, is practically unlimited in production, is less dangerous, cleaner and much more efficient.

WHY GASOLINE WAS CHOSEN

With the introduction of the automobile in the nineties, gasoline was a waste by-product of the millions of gallons of crude oil that were being produced during the first oil boom, and engineers found an easy solution for its use in the automobile. Having started with gasoline, they have continued designing their motors for this fuel.

Dr. Arnstein points out the various ways in which alcohol is superior to gasoline.

HAS NO POISONOUS EXHAUST

"Gasoline," he says, "contains no oxygen, while alcohol contains 24 per cent of its weight in the form of oxygen. This is the reason why alcohol burns up completely in the engine while gasoline, due to its lack of oxygen, requires a larger amount of air for its combustion than alcohol. The nitrogen of the excess air, required for the combustion of gasoline, dilutes the exhaust, carrying away much heat, and thus greatly reduces the thermal efficiency of the engine."

The combustion product of gasoline is carbon monoxide, a deadly gas. The combustion product of alcohol is carbon dioxide, a clean, harmless product used for the preservation of foods and other helpful purposes.

Alcohol also is safer in the fact that it mixes easily with water, while gasoline does not. An alcohol fire can easily be extinguished.

MADE FROM WASTE PRODUCTS

Alcohol can be much cheaper than gasoline, says Dr. Arnstein, because it is made from such waste products as spoiled cereals, molasses and sandalwood. Its products are valuable.

Large quantities of alcohol as automotive fuel were used during the war by Germany and found much favor and economy. At that time it was mixed with benzol and nitroplane.

The U. S. Post Office Department experimented with alcohol in airplane engines. In connection with its airmail service, and found that alcohol resulted in an increase in miles per gallon of fuel used, a marked increase in power and considerable saving in lubricating oil.

BACK-SEAT SPYING WINS HER DIVORCE

A according to court testimony, she had herself walk the lap robe in the back seat until he went along with her husband in town to him. She charged that he would pick up girls by appointment or by chance and flirt with them as he drove along.

She refused to reveal herself as she said he threatened to drive off in embankment and left her charged. She received a divorce.

CREDIT RESERVES
GIVE AUTO MAKERS MARGIN TO WORK ON

Industry's New Policy Stresses Controlled Output, Distribution

EDITOR'S NOTE: (Great credit reserves are giving the automobile industry a working margin of adjustment in controlled output, and controlled distribution are the mainsprings of the industry's new policy, as explained in the following dispatch by Special Staff Writer of the Post-Crescent, who has made a survey of conditions in the Detroit manufacturing district.)

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Detroit.—The latest census reports show $1,965,310,508 of capital invested in automobile manufacturing and a wholesale value of passenger cars and trucks of $3,162,738,850. Against this there are only about $60,000,000 of bonds outstanding.

On this showing, the credit structure of the automobile industry is stronger than that of any other major industry. Meet packing, the second largest industry, is carrying about $500,000,000 in bonds; steel bonds are nearly $600,000,000; the oil industry is carrying similarly heavy issues.

Great credit reserves have given automobile manufacturing a momentum and an assurance which is carrying it hopefully through a period of depression, and they also give it a working margin with which to make basic changes and readjustments.

"Controlled output" is the new slogan for 1930, but many sheaves of lead pencils are being worn out on the problem of controlled distribution. In the past, not only automobile manufacturers, but others have met reactions by evangelical campaigns among dealers and distributors. The method has been to get the boys together at a banquet and infect them with a man-eating frenzy calculated to let no helpless buyer escape.

Overproduction had the effect of sudden distensions in sales channels, swelling up like an aneurism in an artery, ready to burst any minute. Anyone concerned with nationally merchandized products knows that along about last September there wasn't a sales manager in the United States who wasn't looking for an eighteenth story window to jump out of.

The new policy of the automobile industry lays aside the bull whip and will no longer depend upon the Billy Sundays of the industry to warn up the dealers.

The industry suddenly faced the fact that prices couldn't be lowered and sales volume maintained merely by shaving dealers' discounts.

"BOOTLEGGING" GROWS
Among the $2,000 dealers in the United States, there has been considerable demoralization during the last few months, and an increase in the practice of "bootlegging" new cars—that is, picking them up from forced sales, or from individuals wanting to Welsh on a contract at less than the wholesale price. The dealers had to be geared into the unified manufacturing and distributing process, with a more sympathetic understanding of their requirements for security in their business. This is being done and it constitutes one of the most important readjustments in the industry.

Warren E. Griffith, former president of the national automobile dealers' association, in conference with leaders of the industry, has formulated the immediate requirements for sound distribution as follows:

The factories to keep production just under consumption, with a complete abandonment of the old practice of overloading dealers.

The return to the closed territory and the abolition of the open territory; dealers to have exclusive right to their own territories, this being directed mainly at the bootlegging practice.

Factories to allow the disposal of unsold cars at the end of the year at clean-up prices.

DROP "FLEET" DISCOUNT
Elimination of the fleet buyers' discount, giving the small dealer a better chance to compete.

That virtually outlines the new distributing policy, with the exception of fewer model changes. There is much difference of opinion about this. Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, dissents sharply.

"Model changes are necessary and will keep on," said Mr. Reeves. "In the past the cars which haven't changed models have been compelled to quit—that's all there is to it. No line can stay in business without frequent model exchanges."

"Uniform production is the most urgent undertaking ahead. Aside from heavy seasonal demands, the industry must provide for replacement of about 2,500,000 cars. Production must be carefully controlled, even if it costs the industry money."

The industry has suffered no disastrous setback in the recent reaction and it is better informed and better equipped and financed than ever. It is looking ahead to more intelligent cooperation among its members, on fundamental points. Prices are now low and the fact that there is a demoralization in the industry, which will enable buyers to pick up new cars for almost nothing, is enormous. The present stability of the industry will be maintained by prices which will enable it to live and get back to full volume of sales and employment."

RADIO STATIONS
MAY BE RATED BY AIR ASSIGNMENTS

Plan Is Evolved by Capt. Guy Hill, Commission Engineer

BY ROBERT MACK

Washington—(CPA)—Adoption of an evaluation yardstick for broadcasting, under which every station would be rated according to program merit and its assignment on the air, is being considered by the federal radio commission.

Evolved by Captain Guy Hill, commission engineer, the project has as its objective perfection of the distribution of broadcasting facilities throughout the country in a manner that will comply with the terms of the much battered Davis equalization amendment. By establishing a particular type of station as a unit, and classifying other stations as portions of that unit, or as more than one unit, as the case may be, it is felt that a definite method of allocation can be worked out.

For several days the "hill theory" has been discussed at commission meetings. It is still tentative, and is highly technical. One proposal is that a station of 1,000 watts, operating full time on a regional channel to be the "unit of measure," providing its service was above reproach. Consequently stations of 50,000 watts, operating full time might be calculated in terms of more than one unit, where as a 500 watt station with full time might be adjudged one-half unit.

Certain members of the commission are opposed to the plan. They say it complicates an already complicated situation. They do not concur in the view that by dealing in units, the commission would apportion facilities on a more equitable basis, and correct the shortcomings of the present distribution.

tion which is complained about constantly.

Matters affecting the engineering aspects of broadcasting will command the commission's attention in the immediate future in a big way. It is expected that Commissioner E. O. Sykes soon will push his pet theory that broadcasting stations of high power can operate simultaneously on the same channel without ruinous interference. Along with this will be the drive against cleared channels, for the Sykes proposal has as its objective a reduction in the number of such frequencies for high powered stations.

To take over these engineering duties, the commission has appointed V. Ford Greaves, an engineer of wide experience, as assistant chief engineer. Mr. Greaves, under present plans, is to be in immediate charge of broadcasting, succeeding George O. Sutton. Mr. Sutton for the past year has held the status of assistant chief engineer in charge of broadcasting, but not under the new arrangement.

It is expected that this will be increased before long to 40,000. The object is to free husbands from oppression of the females.

FISH FIGHTING
Bangkok, Siam.—One of the most interesting sports in Siam is that of fish fighting. Fighting fish are bred the same as race horses and game cocks. They are taken into a hall and placed in a bowl of strong glass. They fly at each other and change colors all during the fight. So fierce are the fights that the winner is seldom able to fight again.

STREET OFFICIALS
TELL PEOPLE WHERE TO DUMP GARBAGEPromiscuous Disposal Is Not Permitted, Authorities
Warn

Kaukauna—Thomas Reardon and Joseph Kuehn, street commissioners, are experiencing trouble with persons who dump rubbish in various parts of the city. The officials have issued a warning that rubbish should be disposed of only at the dumping grounds. Residents of the south side will find a place to dump rubbish on the far end of Hendricks Avenue near Tenth-st. There is a large gully there that is being filled. Residents of the north side can deposit their rubbish in the sand pit at the north end of Lawe-st, across from Holy Cross cemetery.

Rubbish has been found on the grounds in the rear of the high school and near Standard Oil supply station on Third-st. Dumping of rubbish is prohibited at these places. All rubbish, except parts of old cars and garbage, can be dumped in the ravine on the end of Hendrick-ave, Commissioner Kuehn explained.

Commissioner Reardon said that persons are dumping rubbish at the old dumping grounds on highway 41, which has been partly filled in. He stated that there still is a part of the grounds there that has not been filled and persons may put rubbish there. They must, however, he said, put the rubbish down in the hole and not on top of the ground where the city workmen have to remove it. He advised dumping all rubbish in the sand pit.

PRIMARY ELECTION
BATTLES ENLIVEN
ILLINOIS VOTERS

Leaky Trunk and Policy of Negro Congressman Part of Issues

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Chicago—A dry congressman's leaky trunk affords the principal issue in one of the many interesting primary election campaigns which will enliven voting in Illinois on April 8.

The policies of the only Negro to sit in congress within the last quarter of a century, have stirred another battle—but one which insures the retention of a colored representative from the first district of Illinois.

In another contest the name of a dead gangster, John (Dingbat) Ober—recently taken for one way ride—still is on the ballot as a candidate for republican ward committeeman in a backlot-of-the-yards district.

The dripping trunk which cast off the aromas of foreign liquor, was supposed to have belonged to Congressman M. A. Michaeison, who has served five terms from the seventh Illinois district. He is a consistent prohibitionist and as a result was much embarrassed when the trunk, on its way from Cuba, attracted the attention of liquor law authorities. The congressman put the blame on his brother-in-law, but the incident is the feature of a campaign.

"I will bring no leaking trunks into Miami or any other American port," his principal opponent in the republican primaries, George Rodriguez, tells his audiences.

In Illinois first congressional district, which has an 80 per cent Negro voting population, Oscar DePriest, the only colored member of congress is seeking endorsement for his first term at Washington.

DePriest never has enjoyed too savorv in Illinois politics. He gained considerable notoriety when his wife was entertained at a White House tea, with the result that southern democrats were greatly stirred and their notoriety is an advantage in his district now.

However, he is opposed by Roscoe Simmons, known as "Nero Demosthenes," and by George Hodge, editor of the Union Labor Advocate.

Simmons is master of that type of oratory which enables him to work colored audiences to a high pitch of excitement. Congressman DePriest, however, controls the machine which has earned a reputation for almost 100 per cent vote delivery in the past, so he expects to ride through the primary, which is tame to election.

against the table and putting one hand to her forehead, "wait, I must have time to think."

He took the hand and carried it to his lips. "All right," he conceded indifferently, "think as much as you please—only don't be too long about it. So lovely and—so soon mine!" he added.

"I—I must have time to think." Anne repeated mechanically. She scarcely knew even what she was saying.

Anne swayed back from him, her eyes closed, one hand at her heart. Her arm had begun bleeding again.

Morse looked at her inquiringly, as he stood her with both hands on her shoulders. "You seem a trifle upset tonight," he said. "But at all events, the effect is charming."

Anne opened her eyes and straightened a little. "Tell me," she asked earnestly, "was it true, what you said a while ago about Scott Glenn?"

He looked at her thoughtfully. "How can you really had a fancy for the hulking brute, eh?" Anne did not know whether to believe Morse or not. His words carried no ring of sneeriness and she realized he would not hesitate to lie if it served his purposes. If Glenn were dead, perhaps this was the easiest way out of his dilemma but she rebelled at Morse's evil suggestion—she went with him, it must be as his wife. She felt ardentness was demanded.

Anne leaned against the table for support. Morse was close to her, gazing intently into her face. "You know I have no one but you. As for Glenn, you didn't really think I cared for him did you? Anne paused for a moment; she thought she had detected the sound of a foot step on the porch and her heart beat fast as her hopes mounted then died in the silence that followed.

Her mocking tone matched the cynical curve of her lips. "I'll tell you about him," she continued, little realizing that the subject of her conversation was at that moment standing transfixed in the darkness of the porch gazing at the scene which had arrested his attention as he was about to enter the cabin. An impulse stronger than all Glenn's conflicting emotions had sent him home on the double quick when he had learned of Sheb's disobedience and suspected Anne might need him.

"The primitive, conceited bully," she said derisively. "When I met him that first morning in the mountains, he stung my pride with his superior air and then that night he brought me home after the storm. I promised myself I would make him love me at any cost—I would have my revenge."

"He wasn't such a difficult case after all," she continued in a light scathing tone. "He asked me to marry him at our third meeting. Then I found out about the gold—it was really too much of a temptation to pass up, with our needing the money so. I knew he would have no time with me while the dam was being built. I thought I could get a settlement after a divorce sufficient to repay everything and come to you free."

From where he had stood frozen in his tracks Glenn turned away. All the spark had gone out of life—his suspicions had been accurate—she was worse than he had thought.

As for Morse, there would be a day of settling accounts. Sick at heart, he strode off down the path to the tunnel.

SHEPARD HOPES FOR RELEASE ON BONDMan Accused of Poisoning Wife Admits Engagement to Stenographer

Denver—(AP)—Cheerful, and admitting his engagement to Miss Grace Brandon, Brooks Field, Texas, stenographer, Major Charles A. Shepard, United States army surgeon, today hoped for immediate release on $25,000 bond from the Denver-co jail where he has been held since Monday, charged with the fatal poisoning of his wife.

Yesterday he admitted his affection for the young woman, for whose love federal officers assert he killed his wife last June at Fort Riley, Kas. He continued to deny his guilt, however, and said he would fight immediate return to Kansas.

Federal Judge J. Foster Symes, late yesterday declared the charge against the medical officer bailable and set the amount at $25,000. Major Shepard, through his attorney, immediately sought to raise bond.

He will be released here if he furnishes bond, and have to return to Kansas unless he is indicted by the federal grand jury which meets the middle of April.

Frankly, Major Shepard sketched his friendship which later developed into affection, for Miss Grace Brandon, and admitted he became engaged to her eight months after the death of his wife.

Major Shepard in an interview, denied emphatically any connection with his wife's death and said she was the victim of a "tragic habit" of which he had tried to cure her.

Major Shepard said he did not care to discuss the "tragic habit" of his wife, which preceded her death. He is reported to have written her brother, Curtis McCoskey in Los Angeles, that Mrs. Shepard was "drinking herself to death." Mrs. Shepard died after an illness of 23 days.

Major Shepard pleaded not guilty to the murder charges when arraigned.

CALLS SUPREME COURT TOOL OF THE WEALTHY

Madison—(AP)—The supreme court was charged with injustice to the poor by Raymond J. Cannon, Milwaukee, in a speech delivered here last night in the interest of his candidacy.

Cannon seeks the post held by Justice Chester A. Fowler in the court which disbarred him from the practice of law for a period of two years.

Cannon said the candidacy of Justice Fowler was being pushed by corporation attorneys who want the high court to remain "the tool of the wealthy."

The speaker charged that a fine of $50 for contempt of court which had been assessed him by Judge Fowler in a circuit court had been used against him in the suspension proceedings. Cannon read from a court record showing that Fowler himself had once been fined $200 for contempt of court.

Justice Charles H. Crownhart was the only member of the court whose work was lauded by Cannon.

CALL MONEY DROPS TO LOWEST POINT IN LAST 6 YEARS

2 Per Cent Figure Brings Flood of Easy Funds to Wall Street

New York—(P)—Call loans renewed on the New York Stock Exchange today at 2 per cent, the lowest renewal rate since November, 1924. The rate was steady at that figure, however, and money brokers reported little or no funds available at lower rates in the outside market, where loans were made as low as 1 1/2 per cent during the past two days.

Bankers' acceptance rates continued to decline, however, leading dealers cutting their rates on maturities up to 120 days by 1/8 of one per cent, making the new rates 2 1/2 bld, 23 asked. These rates also are the lowest since 1924.

The reduction in the Bank of England rate from 4 to 3 1/2 per cent tended to bear out the view generally held in Wall Street that comparatively cheap credit has come to stay for some time. A reduction in the New York Federal reserve bank rate from 3 1/2 to 3 per cent is forecast in some circles.

Two per cent call money, and even lower rates, occurred frequently in years past. In 1917 and 1918 the rate touched 1 1/2 per cent, and in previous years not infrequently touched 1 per cent. Old timers in Wall Street recall times when money went begging at 1/8 of one per cent.

ANOTHER DROP

London—(P)—The Bank of England reduced the bank rate today from 4 to 3 1/2 per cent.

Downward trend of world money rates fostered by central banking institutions—owing to fall of commodity prices and trade depression—reached a point especially in New York and London permitting reduction by the English Central bank from the mark which was established only a fortnight ago.

This easing of the bank rate accompanied by firm exchanges and free movement of gold relieved fears that the bank would not be able to build up a reserve if the rate was materially reduced.

Traders welcomed the reduction as lightening the burden of their high loan charges. The treasury meanwhile is said to be awaiting a favorable opportunity to reduce the rate of interest on war loans by big conversion schemes.

So certain were financial interests of today's reduction that a big buying movement progressed all week on the stock exchange where the government and investment stocks experienced a small boom, rising from one to four points.

The discount houses are still competing keenly for bills in the market at a low figure. They already have made up their minds that a 3 per cent rate will be instituted shortly.

NORWAY REDUCES

Oslo, Norway—(P)—The National Bank of Norway reduced its discount rate from 5 per cent to 4 1/2 per cent today.

LINE UP QUESTIONS FOR DIRECTORS OF INDUSTRIAL CENSUS

Census Takers Will Start Work Next Month, According to Directions

Directors of the industrial census to be taken throughout the Fox river valley in April have completed schedules of questions to be asked regarding unemployed persons by census takers. Persons having an occupation but not at work at the time the census is taken will be grouped into two main classes, those whom have a job but are temporarily laid off because of lack of orders, bad business, sickness, and those who are able to work and want work, but can't find it.

Census takers will ask the following questions about those who have jobs, but are temporarily out of work: (1) How many weeks since he (or she) has worked on his present job? (2) Why was he not at work yesterday, or in case yesterday was not a regular working day, why did he not work on the last regular working day? (3) Did he lose a day's pay by not being at work? (4) How many days did he work last week? (5) How many days in a full time week?

The following question will be asked about a person usually employed, but having no job of any kind at the time the census was taken: (1) Is he able to work? (2) Is he looking for a job? (3) For how many weeks has he been without a job? (4) Reason for being out of a job, or for losing his last job?

QUESTIONS ARE PICKED

Directors took exceptional care in arranging the questions to be asked, it is reported, and in this connection an advisory committee composed of 25 leaders of representative labor organizations, financial institutions, industrial groups and universities, was appointed to meet with officials of the departments of commerce, agriculture and labor to consider what questions should be included and how the census should be taken.

The committee spent considerable time in studying the proposals of various groups, and in consulting with the recognized organizations which are interested in this subject. The questions as now stated represent the consensus of opinions expressed by the members of the advisory committee and the numerous outside organizations consulted.

When the information has been gathered, data will be at hand concerning the number of men and women unemployed, the average age of the unemployed, how many of the unemployed are married and how many are single, how long they have been out of work, and the leading reasons for unemployment in the United States.

To determine a true figure for the number of people who are actually out of work, the census bureau has instructed its enumerators not to register as unemployed persons living on their income and not seeking work; nor will the infirm or feeble minded be ranked in this category.

WON'T COUNT BOYS

The unemployment census will be part of the regular population count to be taken next month. Young boys and girls will not be included in the unemployment census, but all persons who have finished or stopped school and have actually started work will be asked if they were employed on the day before the census taker arrived.

The "day before the census is taken" has been adopted by the bureau as a basis of determining unemployment because in a great many instances the census taker will have to get his information from a woman member of the family when he calls. The man of the house may be away from home looking for a job and in such cases the woman will

A warning to people to regard the carbuncle as a grave danger is given by the Educational Committee of the Wisconsin State Medical Society today.

"Carbuncles, which are frequently confused with boils, are a much more extensive and serious infection," declares the Medical Bulletin.

The boil is limited to the glands of the skin, but the carbuncle also involves the deeper fatty layer of tissue beneath the skin. It is, however, caused by the same type of bacterial infection.

"It occurs especially in individuals suffering from diabetes or kidney disease, or who are recovering from some severe illness. The resistance of these persons is always poor. Again, it may occur following a blow, or the squeezing of a pimple. A frequent site of occurrence is the nape of the neck, which is being irritated continuously by some garment, often a soiled one. At times, the face or lips are involved. In the latter case, the individual's life is endangered, because the veins which carry the blood back to the heart, from this region, must pass beneath the brain. These veins may become infected through injudicious squeezing or improper attention, and an inflammation around the brain results which is possibly fatal. The disease is painful from the beginning, and progresses rapidly.

Bloodpoisoning Apt To Result From Carbuncles

Madison — Carbuncles are so common an ailment that some people may consider them lightly, but occasionally the gravest symptoms of bloodpoisoning may be the direct result. The mortality from carbuncles is highest because of the insidious poisoning of the blood stream.

A warning to people to regard the carbuncle as a grave danger is given by the Educational Committee of the Wisconsin State Medical Society today.
